

International Day, 2024

March 8th was International Day and Women's Day. International Day 2024 was a day of celebration. The ISW community not only celebrated the cultural differences of the staff and students but acknowledged the contributions, love, and sacrifice of Women. This year's International Day theme was WHO ARE WE?

The festivities began with the traditional International Day parade along the service road. The flag bearers walked down the service road waving the flags that represented their home countries. Staff, students, and families watched from the sides and cheered as the flag bearers passed by. It was great to see everyone dressed in the attire from their home country or from the country that their class represented for the day.

The ECC/ Elementary students showcased their gifts and talents in various ways during the morning performances. The ECC students started the program with a fashion show. Students wore traditional Chinese clothing. The audience also experienced the talents of our Elementary students as they performed songs, and dances and even showcased a Karate demonstration. The G4-5 and G2 students performed skits, teaching parents and fellow students about the countries of Malaysia and South Korea.

After the performances, the learning activities moved to the main building where the Secondary students welcomed the Elementary students, and parents into their learning spaces to experience the planned cultural activities related to their selected countries. Students and parents learned about traditional games, completed arts and crafts activities, practiced Chinese characters, and ate some traditional snacks from selected countries.

International Day 2024 was a success. The ISW community truly experienced the educational impact of cross-cultural learning.

Experience Day at Nanwei, 2024

On Monday, March 11th, Nanwei King's College hosted an Experience Day for students and parents from the International School of Wuxi. The event was well-attended, with many participants eager to learn more about the curriculum and programs offered from kindergarten to Grade 11. Parents were given a tour of the campus, while students had the opportunity to participate in classroom activities. Elementary and middle school students spent the entire day at the school, while high school students attended at least one class of their choice.

We are grateful for the support and assistance provided by Nanwei King's College executive leadership, which helped our students and parents gain a better understanding of the school's offerings.
